

ABOUT THE NATURAL SECURITY CAMPAIGN

The Natural Security campaign is a collaboration among four leading conservation organizations—Conservation International, The Nature Conservancy, Wildlife Conservation Society, and World Wildlife Fund—as they work to educate Americans about the importance and benefits of international conservation efforts. Since 2002, these partners have worked together to raise awareness of and advocate for sustained U.S. leadership in international conservation, including supporting the creation of the International Conservation Caucus.

Conservation International uses science, policy, and partnerships to protect the nature that people rely on for food, fresh water, and livelihoods. Founded in 1987, Conservation International works in more than 30 countries on six continents to ensure a healthy, prosperous planet that supports us all. Learn more about Conservation International, the groundbreaking “Nature Is Speaking” campaign, and its series of virtual reality projects: “My Africa”, “Under the Canopy” and “Valen’s Reef” at conservation.org. Follow Conservation International’s work on Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, and YouTube.

The Nature Conservancy is a global conservation organization dedicated to conserving the lands and waters on which all life depends. Guided by science, we create innovative, on-the-ground solutions to our world’s toughest challenges so that nature and people can thrive together. We are tackling climate change, conserving lands, waters, and oceans at an unprecedented scale, providing food and water sustainably, and helping make cities more sustainable. Working in 72 countries, we use a collaborative approach that engages local communities, governments, the private sector, and other partners. To learn more, visit www.nature.org or follow @nature_org and @nature_press on Twitter.

The Wildlife Conservation Society (WCS) saves wildlife and wild places worldwide through science, conservation action, education, and inspiring people to value nature. To achieve our mission, WCS—based at the Bronx Zoo—harnesses the power of our Global Conservation Program in nearly 60 nations and in all the world’s oceans, and of our five wildlife parks in New York City, which are visited by 4 million people annually. WCS combines our expertise from the field, zoos, and aquariums to achieve our conservation mission. Visit us at wcs.org, or follow us at @TheWCS or @WCSNewsroom.

The World Wildlife Fund (WWF) has been protecting the future of nature for over 50 years. The world’s leading conservation organization, WWF works in nearly 100 countries and is supported by more than 1 million members in the United States and over 5 million globally. WWF’s unique way of working combines global reach with a foundation in science, involves action at every level from local to global, and ensures the delivery of innovative solutions that meet the needs of both people and nature. Our mission is to conserve nature and reduce the most pressing threats to the diversity of life on Earth. For more information visit worldwildlife.org or follow WWF on Facebook, Twitter, and Instagram.